

A. Event Description

Element: Movie poster images in the results grid

Event: click

Response: When a user clicks on a movie poster, the movie card will expand or highlight to show it's been selected. A message will appear below showing which movie was clicked.

How it works:

The user is browsing the three French movie results (Gemma Boveri, Young & Beautiful, Last Summer). When they click on any movie poster, JavaScript detects the click event and adds a visual highlight to that card. It also displays the movie title in a message area so users can see which one they selected. This makes the site more interactive and helps users keep track of which movies they're interested in.
